

Stimulating Team Collaboration

Develop a collaborative mindset

---

The Challenge

Insufficient or inefficient team collaboration is a common barrier to business success. Where teamwork, which also includes cross-functional collaboration, is operating at anything less than optimum efficiency, it is inevitable that business outcomes will be negatively impacted. Communication issues between individuals, as well as organisational barriers, can lead to serious problems, including silo-mentality.

How can Footprint Consulting help?

Our Stimulating Team Collaboration Service identifies barriers to effective teamwork, and works closely with your people to address any cultural or structural issues. We consider issues evident in both inter and intra team collaboration

The process we follow has been specifically designed and methodically improved over time. It allows for complex business issues to be solved through the sharing of knowledge, skillsets and perspectives. By facilitating openness and creativity this service creates a fertile ground for innovation and business improvements.

KEY BENEFITS

Our approach enables our clients to:

- Increase employee engagement
- Solve complex issues
- Instil lasting improvements
- Create fertile spaces for creativity
- Defeat silo mentality

Team Collaboration Process

Our process to enable teams to learn to work effectively

What our clients say

“Our Footprint consultant has demonstrated outstanding facilitation skills in developing and managing workshops between senior management and union officials with an entrenched history of fractured working relationships. The skilled use of participative tools facilitated a more functional relationship and business outcome.”

Business President- Manufacturing Industry

“Effective team collaboration within the workplace is an essential cornerstone of successful business outcomes. It is about enabling everyone to work to their full potential, constantly aiming for the best outcomes, by giving both their individuals and collective bests. Effective collaboration is important not just in hierarchical teams, but also in project teams and cross-functional teams”

Catherine Jacob, Managing Director at Footprint Consulting

5 Key Benefits

that companies will gain from adopting a methodical and professional approach to team collaboration

Solve complex issues

By sharing knowledge, skillsets and perspectives

Increase employee engagement

Fully engaged teams as a result of their involvement

Defeat silo mentality

The process naturally leads to purpose driven cross-functional collaboration

Enhance creativity

Create fertile spaces for innovation

Instil lasting improvements

Create positive changes that are self-sustaining: the benefits of our work are felt long after we have gone

Our mission is to help your organisation reach its full potential

---

Contact

Footprint Consulting

P +61 298 101 409

info@footprintconsulting.com.au